February 2021 / Shevat–Adar 5781

FROM THE RABBI

Esther Hugenholtz

January and February are quiet months. Peaceful, some might say. Lonely, others might offer. Maybe it's a little bit of both. The snow has overlaid our world with a welcome serene calm, and at the same time, I have felt the solitude of fewer Jewish holidays and fewer ways to connect to each other. Even though the snow cover is thick, we can feel in our hearts the faintest stirrings of spring. In a world of white, we celebrated Tu Bishvat and I planted my first seeds, hoping to have homegrown microgreens, lettuce, arugula and cilantro for the Seder table.

Amidst the quiet, other things have been stirring too. Vaccines are finally ramping up and I am sure many of us oscillate between hope and anxiety; our world caught in a fierce race between innovative and safe vaccines and a mutating virus. It will be hard to predict how the next months develop and so while we are still in the metaphorical winter of this pandemic, it is important for us to sow the seeds of spring in our hearts. It is important to do what we Jews do so well: hold onto hope, cultivate community and choose life. We both seek to preserve the present and plan for the future.

As our President Sue Weinberg wrote in her article, we are pushing ahead with safety upgrades which will make our synagogue a safer place to be. A safer synagogue will also help us be a more welcoming community – they are complementary goals. I am grateful to the Safety Committee for all their hard work and equally grateful to the members of our community who have donated so generously.

Other plans for the coming months are a joint Hillel-Agudas Achim Purim celebration where we will read both the traditional Megillah as well as have a fun-filled Zoom Purim spiel with the ominous but oh so contemporary name: 'Pandemic in Persia.' We are also gearing up for Passover, of course. The Second Seder will not be happening in person, but will be hosted on Zoom from my family's home. We will be using a beautiful, brand-new Haggadah published by the Reform movement, chockfull of poetry and meaningful readings to bring our Exodus experience into the 21st century. In order to enhance our Passover festivities, we are also planning Passover packages with a Haggadah on loan, a box of matzah, seasonal recipes and a Pesachdike sweet treat for all members who sign up. (Contact the office).

Closer to our current moment, the month of February has plenty to offer. I am launching a new Introduction to Judaism course on the 15th of February (sign up through the office) for anyone who wants to explore or deepen their connection to Judaism. We also have some fantastic Adult Education programming coming up so check the bulletin for that. And we are gently exploring 'virtually twinning' with a congregation in Boise, Idaho for programming and perhaps a service. The blessings of the Zoom era allow us to look beyond our geographical boundaries and make new friends without any limitations.

As these cold months drag on, I have learned to 'lean into' the cold and am frequently found frolicking with my kids in the snow. At the same time, I am excited for Spring, for more opportunities for socially-distanced outdoors get togethers with friends and for more shots in arms to help us push back against this plague. As always, I remain oh so proud of how this community is navigating the pandemic. I often reflect how hard this all is; for those who live alone who feel the sting of loneliness; for those with families who crave a moment of peace. For those who work out in the community to risk exposure and for those who shelter at home who fear potentially severe disease. All of us are contending with the challenge of the age in different ways, yet of course it is our common humanity that underscores the importance of all our experiences.

When the Sea of Reeds split, the Midrash teaches that instead of two walls of water (with a walkway), there were twelve, separating each tribe of Israel from each other. The tribes could still see either other, but were divided and isolated from each other during that moment of calamity. This reminds me so much of the moment we are living through. We are separated by walls of water, or panes of glass, or electronic screens. We can see each other but we cannot touch—yet. But we are still with each other, sharing each other's experiences which is what the Midrash sought to underscore. Divided yet one.

Dear Agudas Achim family; meanwhile, if you want a friendly ear and a 'lev shomea', a listening heart to help lift your spirits please remember that I am here. Just a text message or an email away. I look forward to being with you in whatever way I can.

The story of the Midrash has a happy ending, of course. The Israelites safely made it across the short and were reunited once again. As we will be.

TIKUN OLAM NEWS Jody Braverman

The food/fundraising drive in support of Table to Table has raised $1344 thus far. Table to Table collects wholesome, edible food from donors. Distribution to those in need goes through agencies that serve the hungry, homeless and at-risk populations. COVID-19 continues to cause food insecurity in the area. Please donate via Agudas Achim to this worthy organization.

Refugee Shabbat is March 5-6, 2021. It will begin our exploration of the subject. One or two events will be scheduled later in the month. The first, which is confirmed, will be at 10:00 on Sunday March 7 features UI College of Nursing professor Emily Sinnwell discussing the work of the Catholic Worker House with refugees seeking asylum here. See the flyer on page 10. Another program is tentatively scheduled for Sunday March 21.

Tikkun Olam committee will assist in distributing bags containing a Haggadah, matzah, and macaroons to members who request them. See information on following pages.

ONLINE LECTURE SERIES

A free online lecture series by the Herbert D. Katz Center for Advanced Judaic Studies will focus on intersections of race and religion, drawing lessons from the history of antisemitism, examining the role of Jews in the racialized culture of the United States, and exploring the role of race in Jewish identity.

See this link for dates and times, details, and a registration link.

JEW, RACE, and RELIGION

A Free Online Lecture Series

We are in the midst of what might be a major new chapter in the history of race relations in the United States, with untold numbers of protestors demanding that the country confront abiding race-based injustice. Among the consequences of this movement is a wider recognition of how race and racism are interwoven into all aspects of society, including government, education, health, and religion.

IN AN EFFORT to deepen public understanding of race, this series uses the prism of Jewish experience to examine intersections of race and religion, drawing lessons from the history of antisemitism, examining the role of Jews in the racialized culture of the United States, and exploring the role of race in Jewish identity. Leading scholars in Jewish Studies, Critical Race Studies, and Religious Studies will share insights and research that deepens the conversation about race, racism, and anti-racism in contemporary society, both American and Jewish.

Audiences are invited to attend individual talks or the entire series. All events will take place on Zoom, Thursdays, 1:30–2:30 pm ET. Register now!

PESACH LETTER

Dear Agudas Achim Congregant –

All of us are feeling the isolation imposed on us by the COVID-19 pandemic and need a little “pick-me-up” to keep smiles on our faces. The board of the synagogue has, and will continue to, try to provide that lift. Prior to the High Holy Days, we loaned prayer books to enable congregants to easily participate in our virtual Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur services and gave out gift bags containing apples, honey, honey cake, and recipes.

We want to continue attempts to uplift the lives of our synagogue family prior to the Pesach Holiday. We are offering the loan of a family Haggadah and a gift bag containing matzo and a sweet treat. The Haggadah will be Mishkan HaSeder, the one the synagogue will use for the second Seder on Zoom and will distribute one per family. There are limited copies so it will be “first come-first served.” If you wish to purchase additional copies for your family the book is available from CCAR Press for \$21.95 or a Kindle version from Amazon for \$9.99.

We realize that not everyone will want the offerings so we ask you to please respond by answering the questions on the flyer on the last page and email them back to us at secretary@agudasachimic.org.

Pickup times: Sunday, March 21, 10:00 a.m. to noon and Wednesday, March 24, 4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Thank you.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Sue Weinberg

As I write this, vaccine administration is continuing. In addition to front-line workers, the University has started vaccinating the general public based on age guidelines provided by the state. Many of our congregants are older, and I know of at least 4 congregants who have received their first shot, and are already scheduled for their second shot. This is great news!

A third vaccine is poised to request FDA approval, a single shot that does not need special cold storage. This would greatly increase the vaccine availability.

Going back to my last month's column proposing Service as a theme, please consider getting your vaccine when it is offered to you. Helping us attain herd immunity would be a very valuable service to the community, as well as protecting your own health.

The bad news is that there are more contagious variants spreading. Many medical professionals are recommending either an N95 mask if you can get them, or double-masking with a medical mask under a cloth mask. We will be keeping an eye on the infection rates and following the best medical advice as we review our reopening criteria, and will keep you informed as decisions are made.

We are moving forward with building updates. At the last board meeting approval was given to purchase livestreaming equipment so we can continue to broadcast services from the building after we return to in-person services. Needed repairs to the freezer and refrigerator will be scheduled, and we are moving forward with finalizing bids for installing some of the security updates. By the time we reopen, our new door access system should be functional! Doing all of this work is much easier and more convenient while the building is not occupied, to prepare us for our eventual reopening. By the time we reopen, our building should have all of the safety updates installed that were recommended by our Safety committee!

Our next major holiday is Pesach. Unfortunately an in-person community second Seder will not be possible, but once again the rabbi will lead a zoom Seder from her home. We are planning Passover gift bags to distribute to the congregation, along the lines of our High Holiday gift bags (but without honeycake!) We have ordered some copies of the new URJ Haggadah which will be available to loan to congregants on a first-come-first-served basis, details will be forthcoming. .

There is also a lot of programming going on via zoom. We just had a wonderful all Iowa Shabbat Shira musical service, and there are a number of fantastic adult education programs in the works; watch the bulletin and the weekly email for details.

Don't let your guard down, stay safe, stay healthy!

L'shalom,
Sue

Rabbi Nikki DeBlosi, PhD

Good, Bad & Holy: Sex in the Jewish Tradition
February 14 (Valentine's Day), 10:00 a.m.

DeBlosi Zoom Link

Is it Jewish to talk about sex? Did the ancient rabbis view sex as a positive influence, a negative influence, or something else altogether? Does Judaism understand the topics contemporary Jewish folks grapple with in terms of sexual identity and expression? Do Jewish values clash with popular views on sexuality? How can Judaism shape, expand, or define our decisions about sex and intimacy? Join Rabbi Nikki DeBlosi, PhD, for a frank and open discussion of a collection of texts that will help us begin to explore the intersection between our own internalized notions of sexuality and the rich depth of Jewish traditional texts on this fundamental part of human life.

Named in 2015 by the Forward as one of America's Most Inspiring Rabbis, Rabbi Nikki is a freelance writer, speaker, teacher, and spiritual counselor. Ordained as a Reform Rabbi in 2013, she combines a high-level academic background with an approachable presence. Her interests include queer and feminist theory, sexuality and relationships, pastoral care, liturgy, and expanding lifecycle ritual. A convert herself, Rabbi Nikki helps folks find community and belonging. She's also a huge Buffy the Vampire Slayer fan.

Join Dr. Zvi Bellin for an entry class in Jewish mindfulness. We will study a foundational Rabbinic text in Jewish mindfulness and discuss how it can be made relevant for our lives today. Building off of that text, we will try on several practices that can enrichen a Jewish life of presence, compassion, and connection. Beginners and advanced practitioners of any mindfulness system are encouraged to join.

Dr. Zvi Bellin is an Associate Professor of Holistic Counseling Psychology at John F. Kennedy University. Zvi's clinical skills integrate mindfulness, spirituality, and meaningful living for individuals, couples, and families. Through his work with Moishe House, Zvi has taught Jewish mindfulness worldwide, and has led extended Jewish mindfulness retreats since 2007.

Refugee Shabbat Is
Friday Night
March 5, 2021

Emily Sinnwell was born and raised in Iowa where, at a young age, she assisted refugee families in assimilating into the United States and volunteered with the Des Moines Catholic Worker House. In 2006, Emily served as a nurse in Chiapas, Mexico. Four years ago, she co-founded the Iowa City Catholic Worker House which provides hospitality and accompaniment to refugees. In 2018 she joined the University of Iowa College of Nursing as a faculty member. She is a dually prepared family and psychiatric nurse practitioner. She currently works in both family practice and psychiatry settings. For the past four years, she has worked extensively with migrant farmworkers across Iowa, providing both direct patient care and serving as Clinical Director of a federally qualified health center. In 2015 the Migrant Clinicians Health Network named her as one of 30 clinicians who have dedicated their lives to migrant health and made a major difference in the lives of refugees and migrants.
